A Look Ahead . . .

More than any other leader of this century, John Fitzgerald Kennedy was a man with whom the youth of the Nation could identify. We remember him not as a politician, but as an intellectual, a diplomat, and an emancipator. Under his leadership there was a new search for learning and conquest; it is to us that he bequeathed the Peace Corps and the Space Program. It is through the youth of the Nation that John Fitzgerald Kennedy will receive immortality; we shall fulfill his ideals.

The New Frontier was launched just as we were realizing our outlook on life. "Now the trumpet summons us again" are the words which our generation shall take to heart. It is only fitting that our President should give the Class of '64 a motto for life.

Kathy Hughes, Co-Editor
Editorial, Tiger Rag
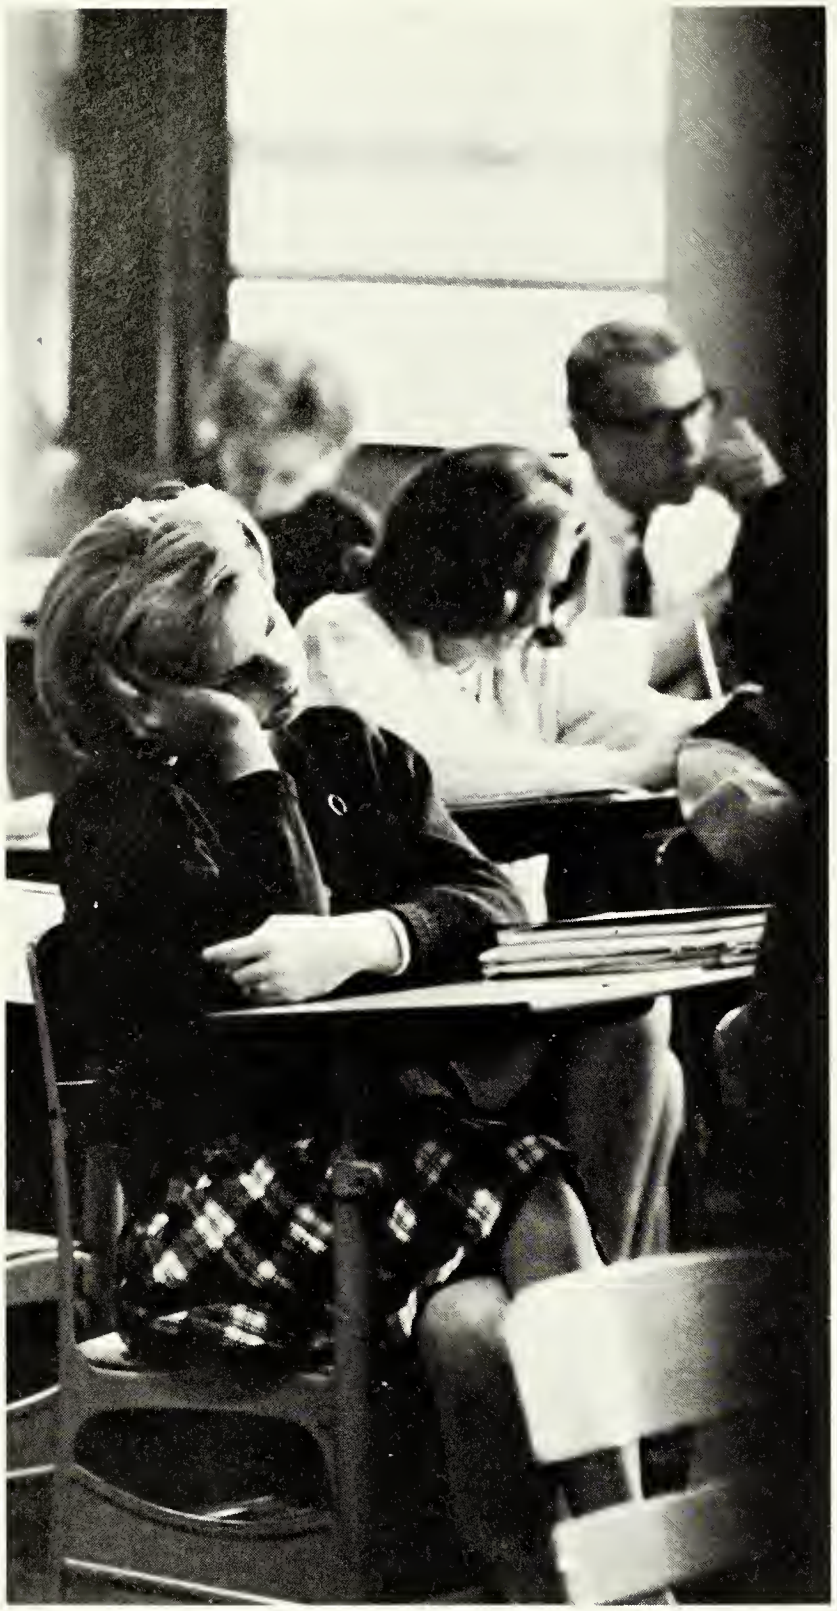
November, 1963



Oh, talk to me not of a name
great in story;
The days of our youth are the days of our glory.

Byron

Seek to delight, that they may mend mankind,
And while they captivate, inform the mind.

Cowper

Best wishes to a real character.
M.J. Hepard

This they all with a joyful mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And, falling, fling to the host behind
"Play up! Play up! and play the game."

Henry Newbolt

Wayne—
Best of luck always football player. Remember all the fine times in Phy Ed.; History and Geometry. Have fun and I'll see you fall.

Rick

Who'er excells in what we prize,
Appears a hero in our eyes.

Swift

Struggle and turmoil, revel and brawl–
Youth is a sign of them, one and all,
A smoldering hearth and a silent stage
These are a type of the world of Age.

W. E. Henley

As I walked by myself,
I talked to myself,
And myself replied to me;
And the questions myself
Then put to myself,
With their answers
I give to thee.

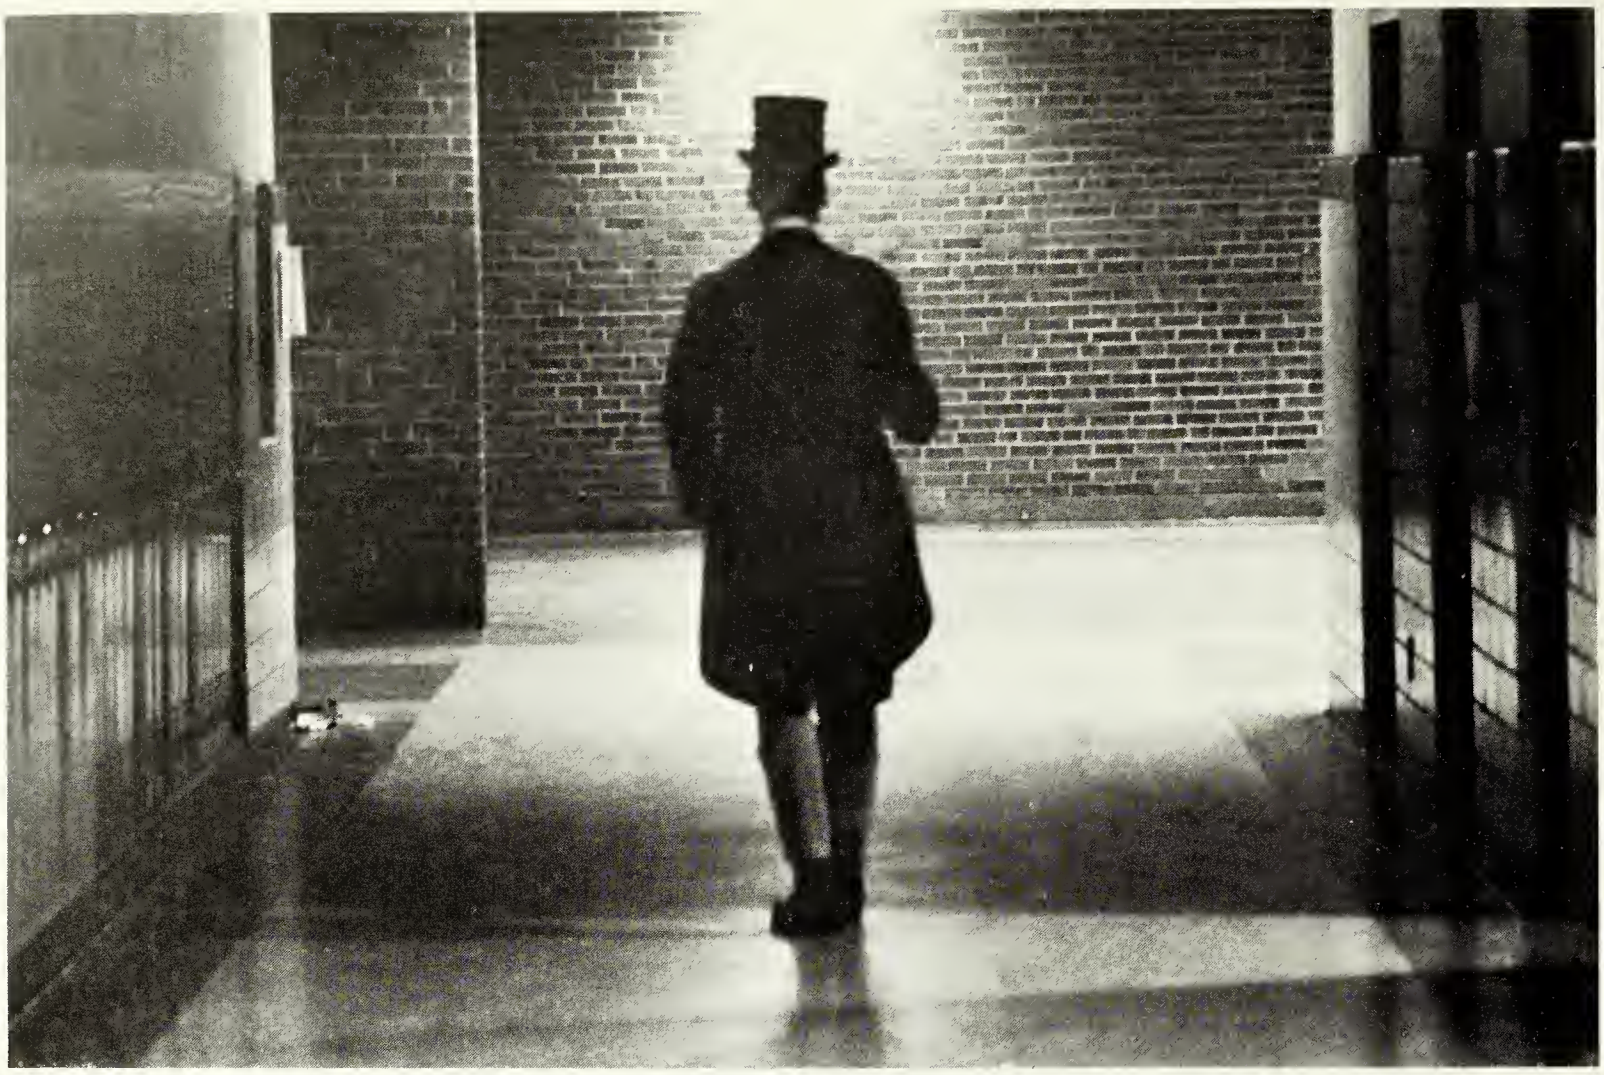
Barnard Barton

How good a meaning may be corrupted
by a misconstruction!

Middleton and Massinger

If every man's internal care
Were written on his brow,
How many would our pity share,
Who have our envy now!

Pietro Metastatio



For life is the mirror of king and slave,
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

ADMINISTRATION

Assuming a load of administrative duties normally handled by three men, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Jackson capably handled their responsibilities so that the school year ran smoothly.

In spite of the additional workload, both men could often be found doing what they seemed to enjoy most—associating with the students. Sights such as Mr. Jackson chatting with students in the cafeteria and Mr. Taylor taking a personal hand in decorating for a dance were not uncommon. Always ready to entertain new ideas, both men took an especially active interest in increasing school spirit and in creating an atmosphere at Groveton conducive to lively academic and extra-curricular pursuits.

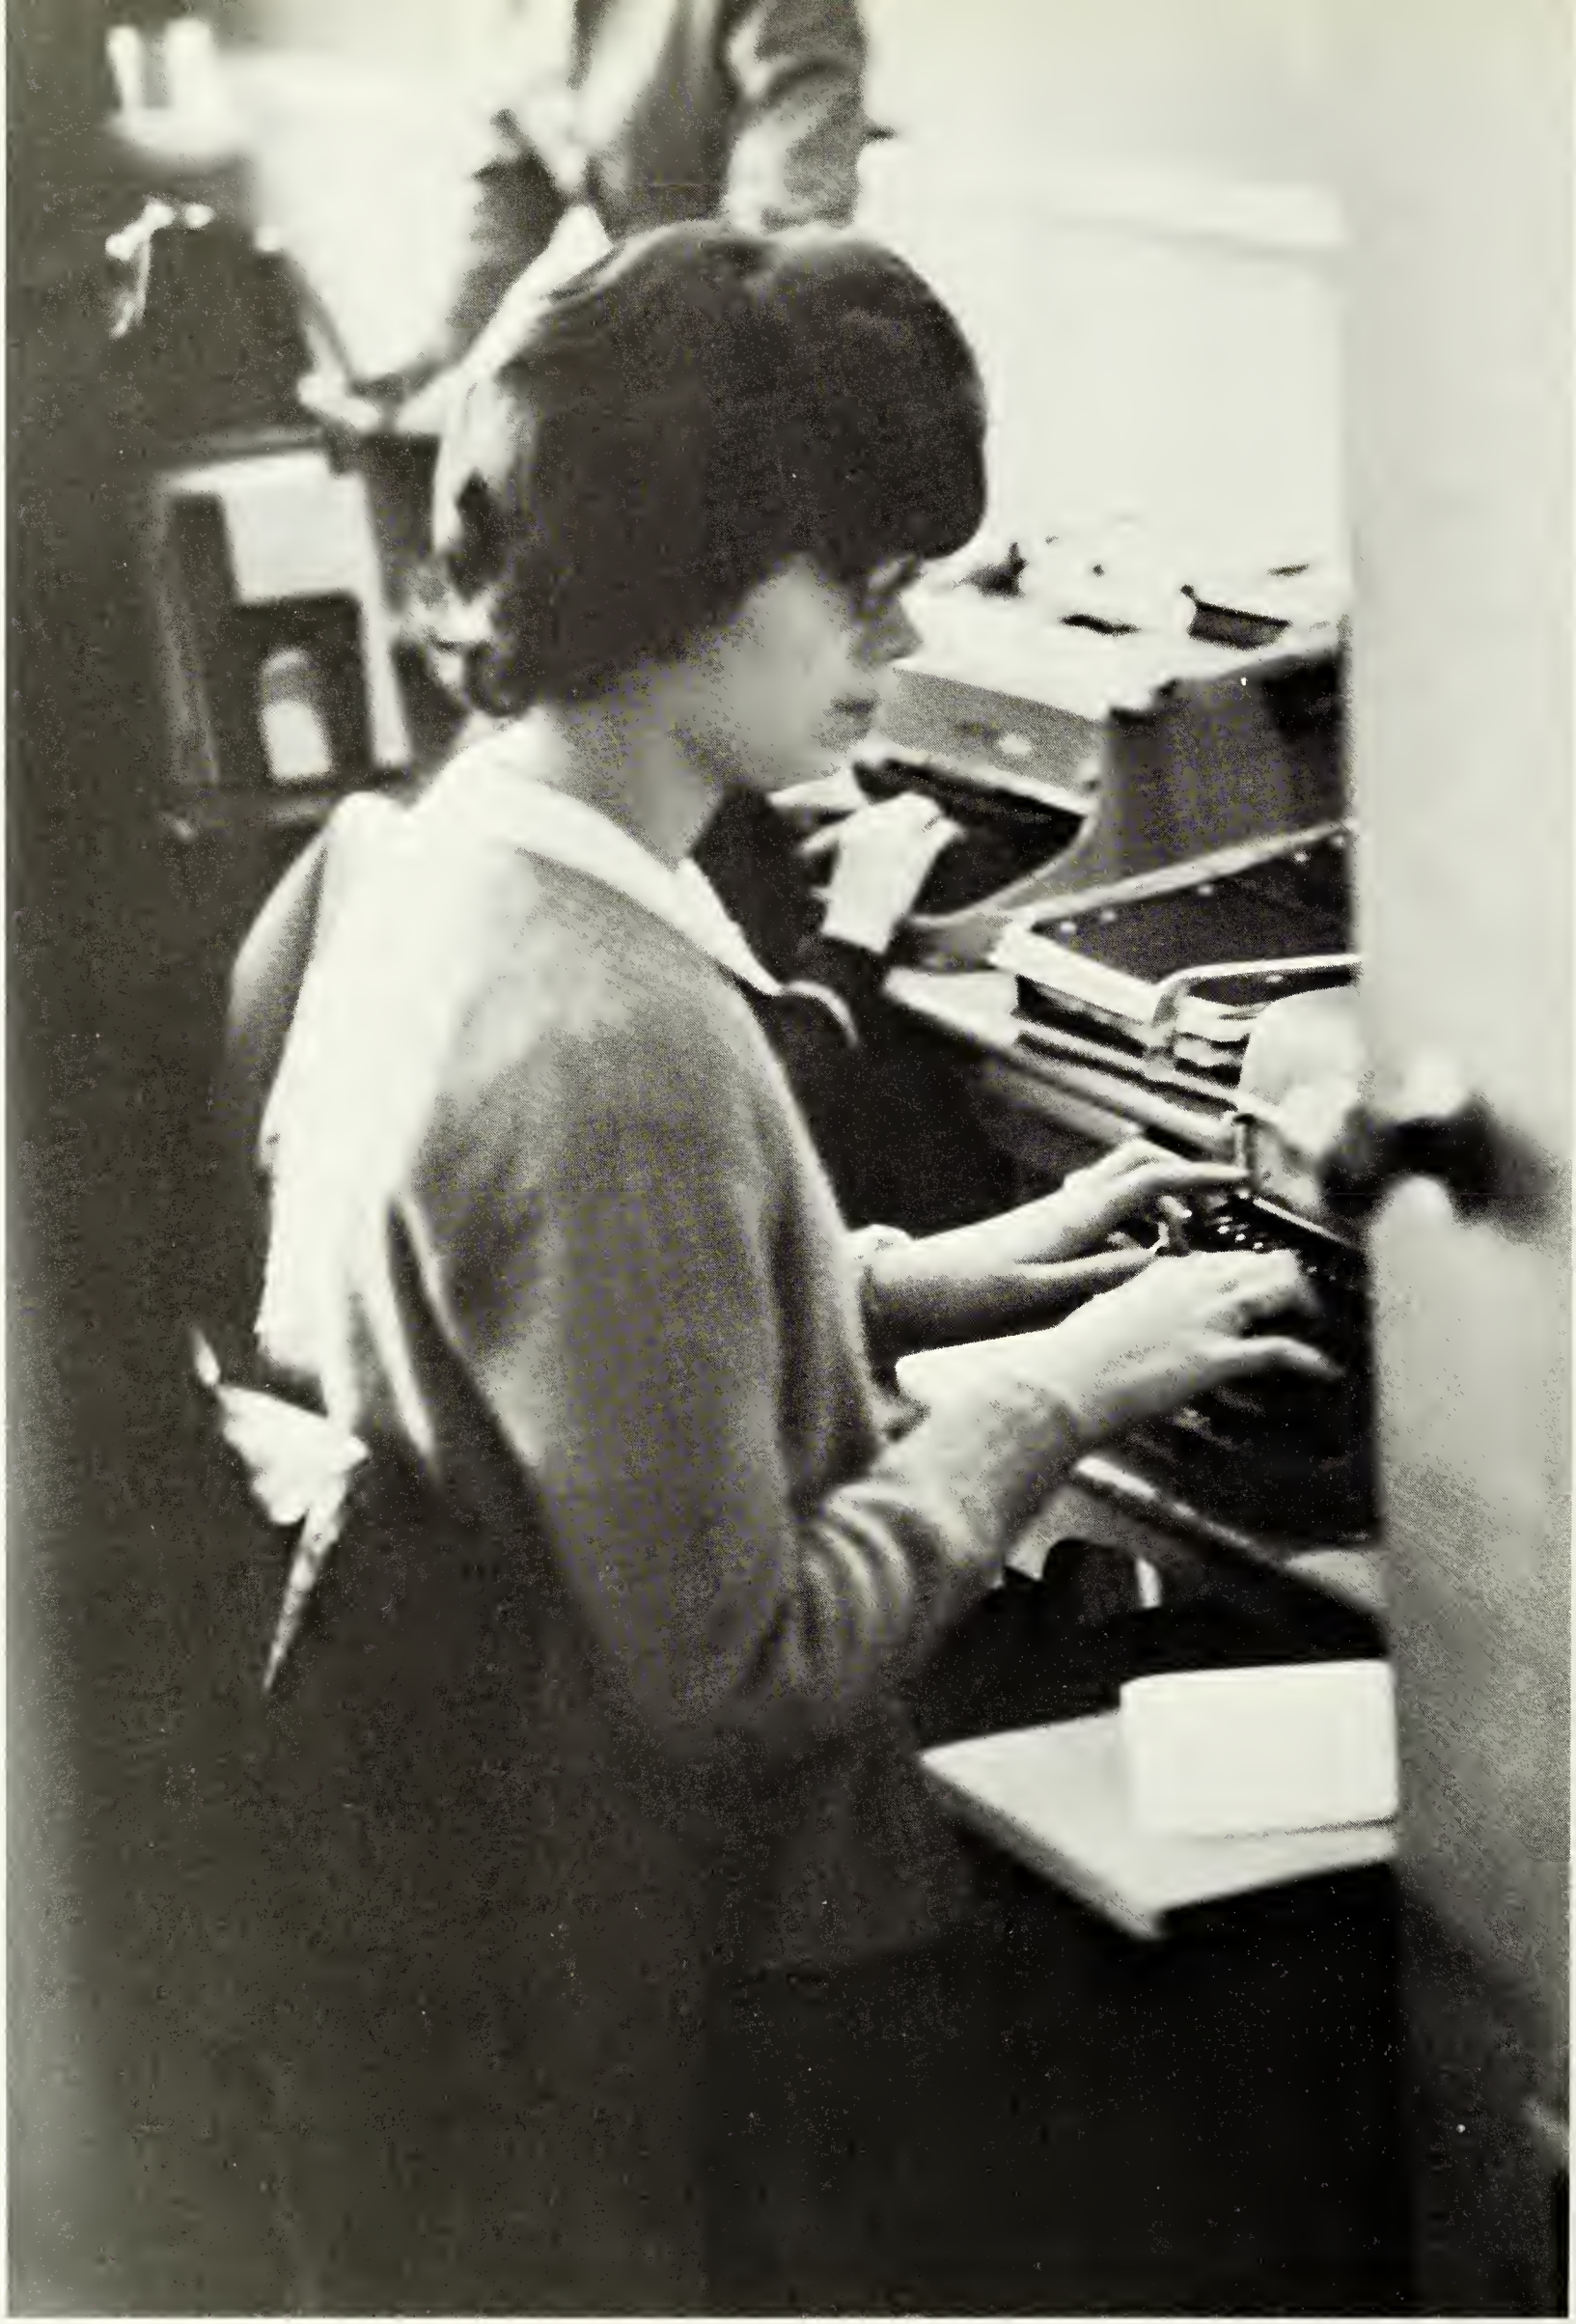
Standing: Mr. Panagos, Mrs. Kelly, Mr. Dew, Mr. Mierzwa. Seated: Mr. Henderson, Miss Wood.

"Hey . . . that's tough!" These and other enthusiastic exelamations of discovery became a familiar part of the science department as the year passed. Although not an entirely new approach, the increased use of lab work was introduced in the chemistry, physics, and biology classes. Since emphasis was plaeed on the comprehension of concepts rather than on the memorization of facts, students were able to conduct "open end" experiments which illustrated the ideas being studied.

Aiding Miss Wood in the always diffieult job of teaching unscientific-minded students to think scientifically were: Mr. Mierzwa, teaching chemistry; Mrs. Kelly, teaching scienee nine and one section of regular chemistry; and Mr. Panagos, teaching a section of regular biology.



BUSINESS

Two new programs, Personal Typing-Notehand and Business Communications, were initiated into the business curriculum this year. The former was introduced to aid the college-bound student; the latter provided business majors with a knowledge of vocabulary and composition used in the business world.

The I.C.T. and V.O.T.-C.O.P. programs continued to provide guidance for the business student in an actual working situation. Shorthand classes had the advantage of a special tape recorder which allowed students to proceed at different rates of speed.

Standing: Mrs. Makay, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Adams, Mr. Braden. Seated: Miss Lacy.

ENGLISH

The World Literature class, initiated last year, was a proven success judging from the increased enrollment of students who read and analyzed great literary works.

The mechanics of good English, along with the study of literature formed the basis of English I-IV. Developmental and speed reading instruction was continued; Business Communications was incorporated into the English IV course. Drama and Public Speaking developed the confidence needed to speak and perform before an audience.

The over-all English program stressed the need of the ability to speak, read, and write well as an integral part of every student's activities, no matter where his interests lay.

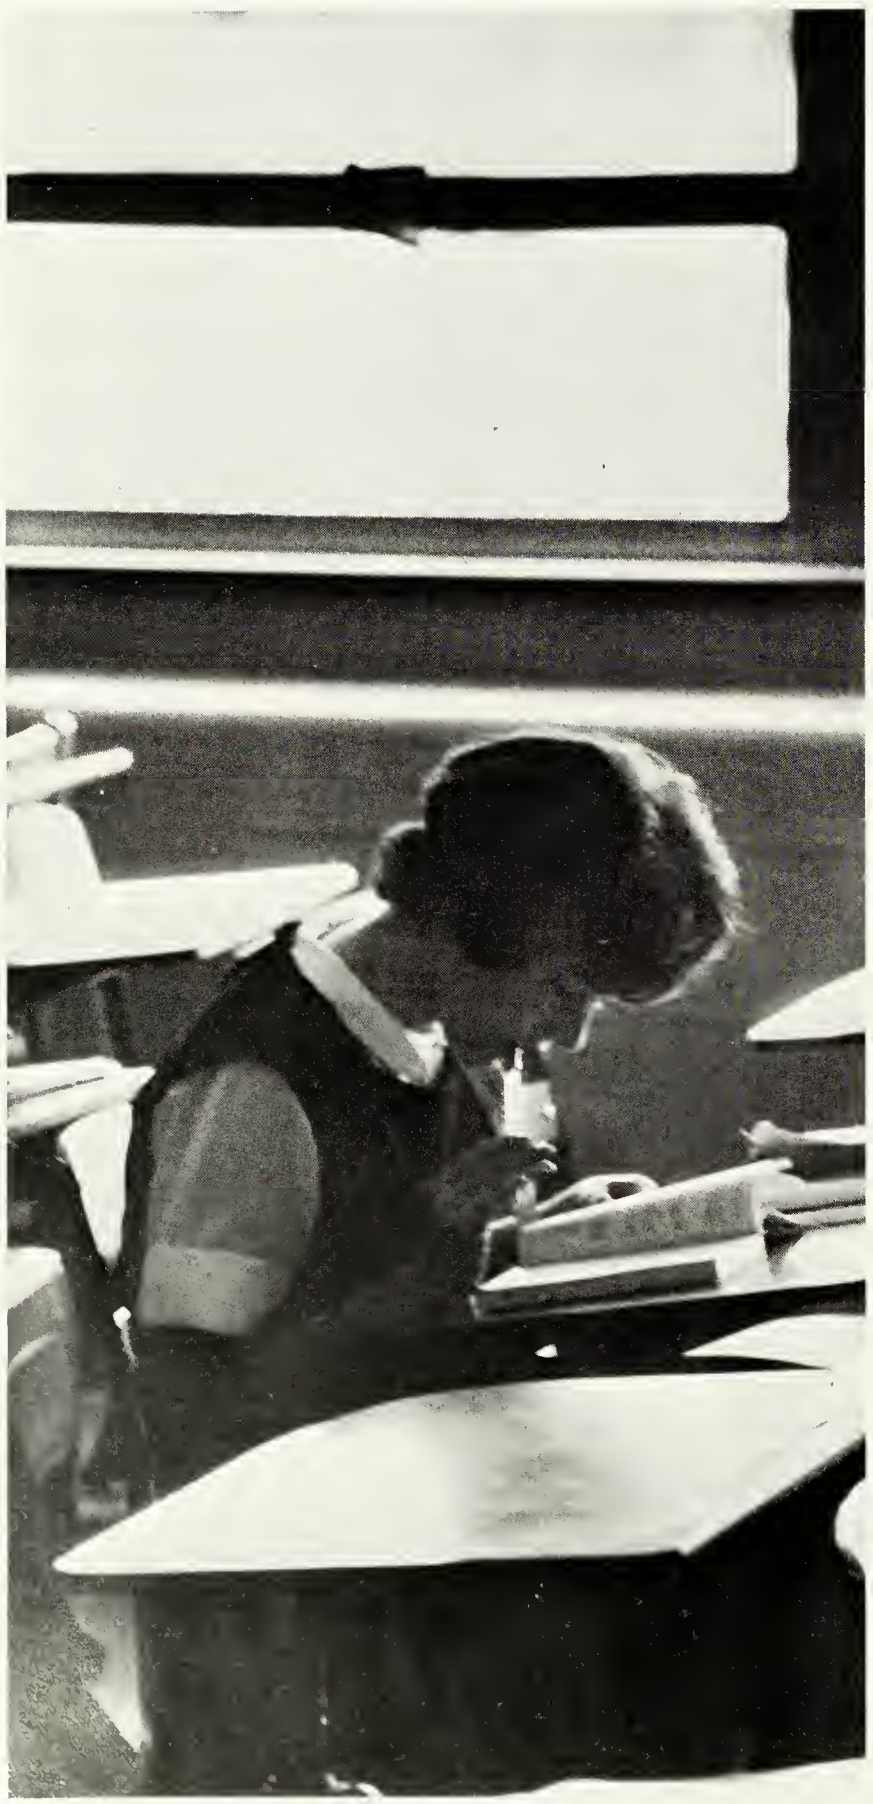
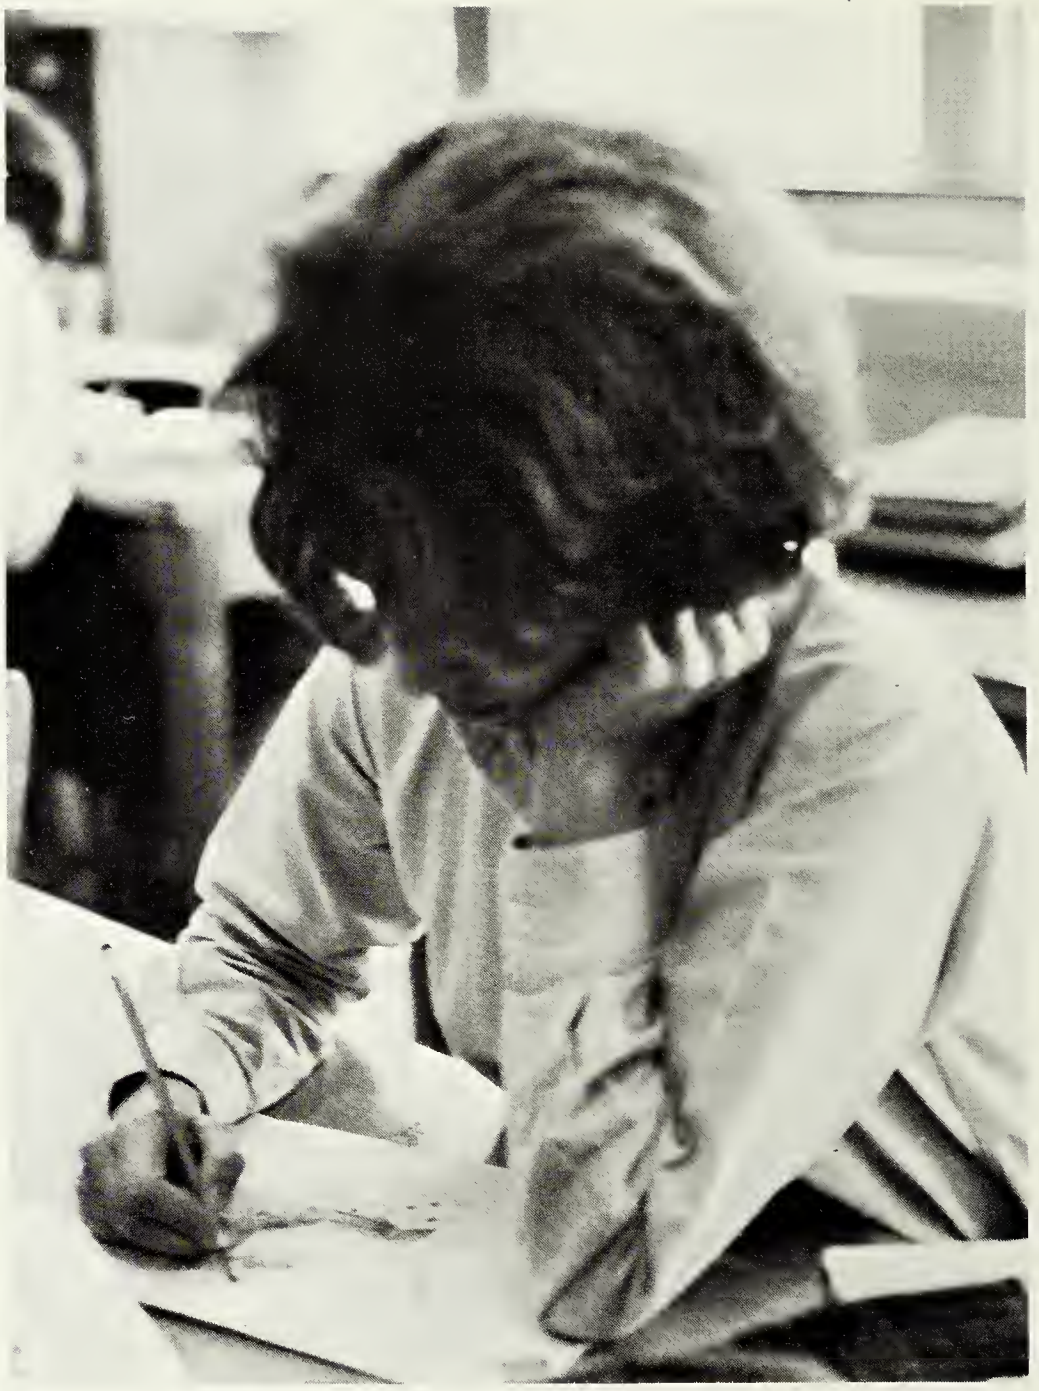
SOCIAL STUDIES





Students were disappointed at the loss of the Sociology Economics course, but soon found compensation in Mr. Hupart's Modern European History class, dealing with the history of Europe since the fifteenth century. Juniors continued to work industriously under the Ashline–Hiller U.S. and Virginia History team, breathing a sigh of relief when they turned in Project Viewpoint. Seniors studied the intricate workings of our republic in their Government classes.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

In accordance with the trend to introduce and to expand new teaching methods, the modern languages expanded the Audio-Lingual program to include second and third year classes. Although writing was de-emphasized, the program was not entirely conversational. Grammar was taught inductively, incorporating it into speech patterns, the object of which was to make correct responses spontaneous.

Latin students on each level competed for state honors in the three-hour State Latin Tournament.

In addition to learning to converse in the language of their choice, students were made aware of the historical background and culture of the various countries studied.

Daily entering the crowded locker rooms, enthusiastic physical education students increased their proficiency in skills related to individual and team sports.

Increased national interest in physical fitness was reflected in activities such as gymnastics, modern dance, field hockey, volleyball, and intramural sports. Health classes and driver education played an important part in the over-all program.

FINE ARTS

The Band Department, under the baton of Mr. Benjamin Pasquale, worked hard pursuing the fine art of music. They learned the value of working together in a group as well as separately in solos. Performing for both the school and the community, the department enjoyed one of its heaviest concert years.

Mr. Anthony, Mr. Pasquale, Miss Hill.

Adding a new elass, the Madrigals, and increasing intra-eommunity activitics, the Choral Dcpartmcnt experienced a different and busy year. Following a study of madrigal composers and costumes, the Madrigals visited Maryland University to hear and observe its Madrigal Singers. By studying voice techniques and various composers, the entire Choral Department learned to better appreciate the music they sang. The year was highlighted with many performances and the annual trip to Constitution Hall in the Spring.

A new course, Art History and Appreeiation, was added to the Art Department curriculum, in addition to general courses in drawing, painting, eeramics, and sculpture. This new course is designed for college-bound students, especially those desiring a Fine Arts diploma; it relates to social studies and is one of the few of its kind in the state.

Parents had an opportunity to appreciate the talents of their sons and daughters at the art show given in conjunction with the Choral Department's Spring Concert.

HOME ECONOMICS

Mrs. Nelson

The Home Economies department, under the sole direction of Mrs. Nelson, pursued the latest developments in the art of homemaking. In connection with a unit on careers, students visited such places as the Home Economies Research Laboratory in Maryland and a local department store, observing behind-the-scenes actions and labor-saving techniques.

To learn the essentials of child care, Home Economics students conducted a nursery, which allowed them first-hand observation of the antics and needs of small children.

"Home Care of the Sick and Injured", a Red Cross course offered for the first time last year, was continued. It has proved to be so profitable that other schools in the county have added it to their curriculum.

Mr. Combest, Mr. Wilmoth.

Although they were fewer in number, due to the decreased enrollment resulting from the opening of Fort Hunt High, Industrial Arts classes continued to produce fine projects in wood and metal, while capable draftsmanship was evident in Mechanical Drawing classes. The General and Metal shop programs introduced a new experimental project, electroplating.

Over and above class work, students and instructors contributed their time and talents to other school projects.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Considering the recent advances in the field of universal mathematics, it is not surprising that Groveton adapted its own mathematical innovations. The SMSG teaching method was employed and continued to stimulate and entertain young mathematicians with the complexity and mystery of numbers, at the same time perplexing parents who had studied under older methods. Students were impressed with the practical application of mathematics in daily life.

MATHEMATICS

"Where are the books on Renaissance English Literature?" "How about Russian plays?" "Aren't there any more Baileys left?" At one time or another every student at Groveton has needed to use the library. With this in mind, librarians did their best to accommodate students and teachers alike. In addition to instructing students on the techniques of using the full facilities of the library and ordering and processing new books, the library extended its hours so that students could make better use of the materials available.

LIBRARY

Standing: Miss Thomas. Seated: Mrs. Williamson.

After the schedule conflicts and changes that plague the Guidance Office at the opening of each school year, counselors concentrated their efforts on assisting students with their many and varied problems and administered tests which would help students to choose the future path best suited to their individual aptitudes and talents. Most importantly, counselors were always there, to listen and to discuss whatever matters were important to the student's success.

CABINET

STUDENT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

Working to create a better student government through the newly enforced referendum, this year's SCA proceeded to transfer some of the responsibility from the small number of cabinet members to the entire student body.

They got off to an excellent start with a faculty picnic, teas, and a good student orientation which helped both teachers and students feel welcome and ready for the new year. All-important school spirit was sparked through the year by bonfires, car caravans to games, and a barrage of pep posters. Annual projects such as the homecoming festivities, SCAnarama, the student directory, the leadership training conference, and Funarama were completed with success.

Several new projects were initiated, among them a club promotions week, a fund raising drive, and an American Field Service program which enabled a foreign student to attend our school.

This year the idea that "Your SCA Serves You" became a reality by obtaining ideas from and placing major decisions into the hands of the students.

HONOR COUNCIL

Concerned about the fact that many students and teachers were virtually unaware of its activities and indeed of its very existence, the Honor Council began the year with a briefing for both teachers and students at which members explained the council's goals and asked for greater support. The result of these assemblies manifested itself in the enthusiasm with which students took out honor cards last fall.

As the judicial branch of the SCA, the Honor Council met in secret to talk with those students reported as having violated the Honor Code. The council had no punitive powers, but strove to make the offender see that his actions were wrong.

HOMEROOM REPRESENTATIVES

One of the goals set forth by SCA President Bruce Smith in his campaign speech in the spring of 1963 was more participation by the students in running their government. To carry out his ideal, Homeroom Representatives were given a bigger role to play than ever before. As elected delegates of the students, they presented the ideas of their homerooms at regular meetings and carried back to the students projected plans of the SCA for discussion and comment, thus serving as a bridge between the SCA and the student body.

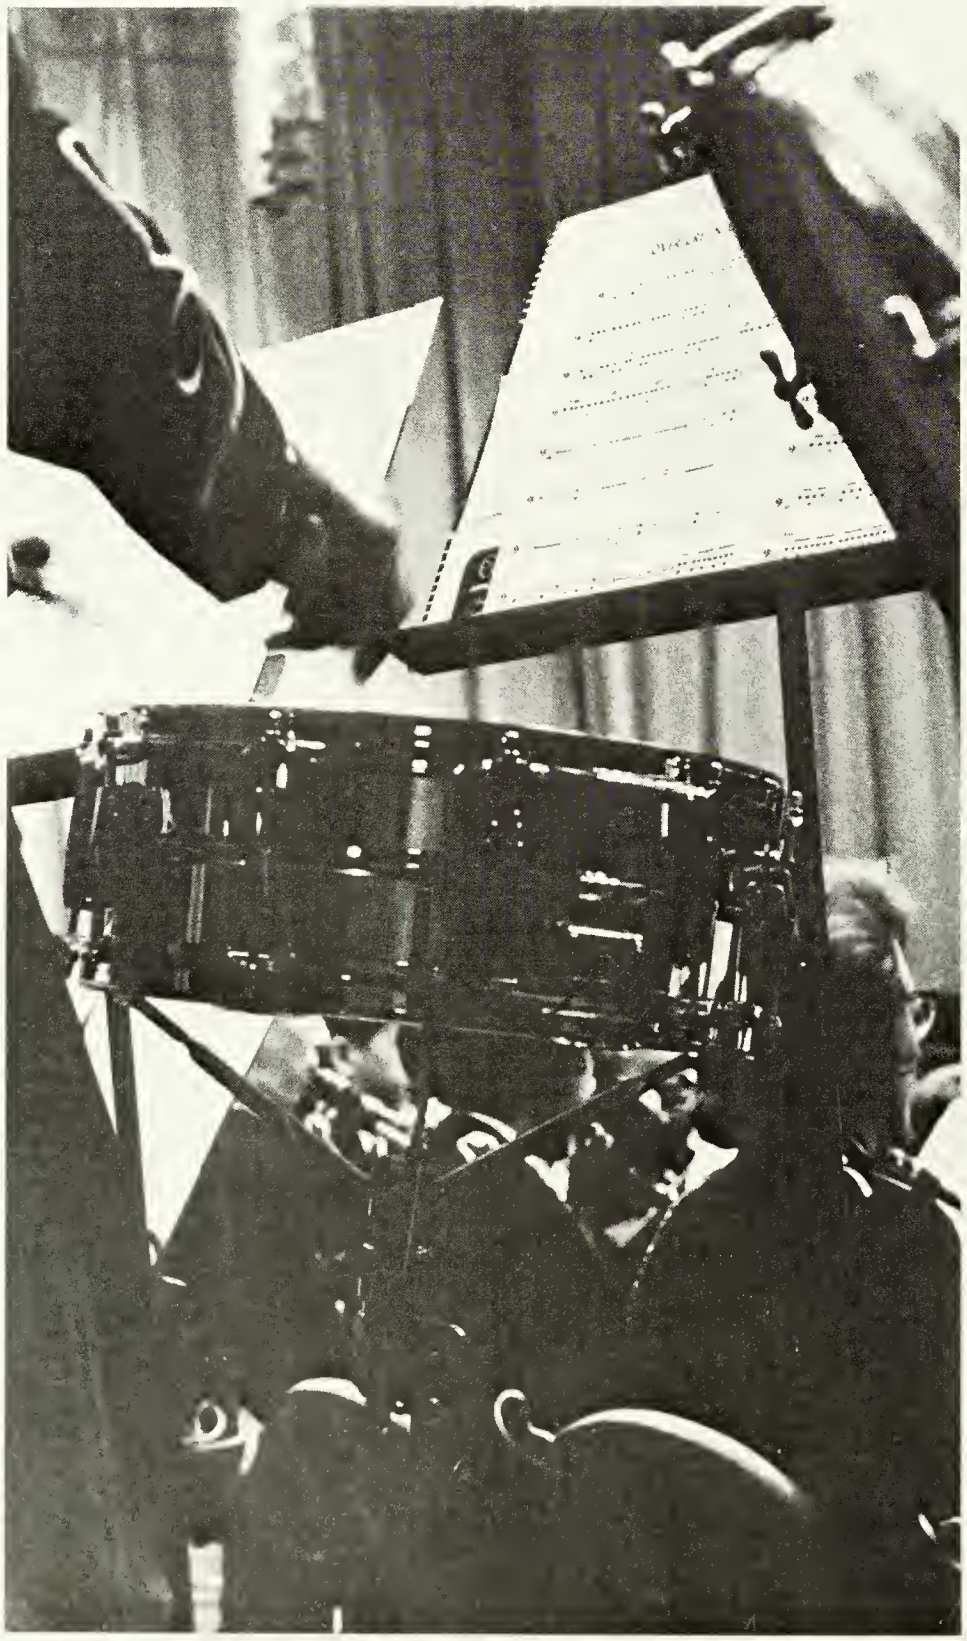
INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

DIRECTOR: Benjamin R. Pasquale.



When the school year started, the prediction was that this would be a most unlucky year for the band. The building of new area high schools had slowly but surely drained band members until fifty out of eighty remained. However, as a result of the enthusiasm and hard work of the band members and under the able direction of Mr. Pasquale, happily this prediction was proven false. Daily practice perfected routines and playing abilities, and the results of these efforts were obvious in the sound and sight of band performances at football games.

With Christmas came the beginning of a heavy concert schedule. In addition to their formal concerts, the band members delighted area elementary school children with Tiny Tot concerts.

Having barely caught their breath, band members plunged into preparations for Jubilee '64, and, directly following, All-State Band. But the highlight of the Year was yet to come, when for the first time in its history, the Band marched in the Cherry Blossom Festival parade.

Hours of practice after school and on Saturday mornings resulted in the precise routines and fine baton twirling exhibited by the Tigerettes at the many occasions at which they performed—football games, Homecoming, and Jubilee to mention a few.

Spectators were always impressed by their smart appearance and showmanship, as evidenced when they appeared with the band in Cherry Blossom Parade. Grovetonites were justifiably proud of their consistent quality of performance and exceptional talent.

CHORAL MUSIC

MR. ANTHONY, Director

Sing! Sing! Sing! This year the Choral Department reveled in enthusiasm. The ehoirs got to go more plaees and do more things; it seemed as if the eoneerts and shows would never stop—but who wanted them to?

There were five ehoirs and a madrigal group. All choral students participated at the Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, and Mother's Day coneerts. Christmas performanees were given by the Charmettes, Symphonic Choir, and the Madrigals at the Senate Office Building and on the White House lawn. At Fairfax Court House the Madrigals and Symphonie Choir sang for the lighting of the court Christmas tree. Jubilee eame with "Musie and More", bringing choral and band students together for another sell-out performanee.

The busy year didn't stop there. Choirs went on to the annual Choral Music Festival and sent members to All-State Chorus. Bringing together new faees, songs, and performances, the message of musie was shared by one and all.

Enthusiasm . . . plans . . . nightly sessions . . . typing, cropping, identifying . . . problems . . . DEADLINES . . . all of these were an integral part of the '63-'64 Tigerama staff. Getting an early start, the staff began planning and anticipating in August. A system of exchange with area schools was worked out, and various editors were briefed as to their forthcoming responsibilities. With the usual grumbling, staff members began the summer ad eampaign, only to find that selling ads eould be challenging. Although it had to be extended, the campaign proved quite suceessful.

Having cleared its first hurdle, the staff then attempted to convince the school that owning a yearbook was an absolute neeessity. For weeks staff members had to eontend with piles of little pink receipts and lists of names, but, after all, that's yearbook!

Then work on the actual book began in earnest. Armed with cameras and film, the photographers took and re-took pictures in order to get the best possible effect. But this was only the beginning! After the best pietures were selected, the art and layout staff earefully cropped and placed them and the copy staff worked to eapture the mood in words. Meanwhile, other editors were frantically identifying and keying pictures, while typists went mad over class lists, direetories, and other copy.

Sound hectic? Well it was, but it was also a lot of fun. Thanks to the eooperation and understanding of the students and faeulty, the staff with the help of Miss Hill, Mr. Hiller, and Mrs. Adams was able to compile the 1964 Tigerama.

TIGER RAG

The slogan: "The new Tiger Rag" has something for everyone began the 1963 subscription campaign of the school newspaper. Although the campaign fell short of its goal, staff members succeeded in publishing nine full issues covering the main events of the school year under the direction of their sponsor, Miss Andrews.

Attending various journalistic conventions, such as the Northern Virginia Workshop at Marshall High School, a conferenee at Washington and Lee University, and the annual meeting of the Southern Interscholastie Press Association, veteran staff members and cubs were given the opportunity to exehange ideas with other sehools and to receive eonstructive criticism.

The new overall format and feature and editorial eolumns brought the praise of members of the faeulty and the student body for the "new" Tiger Rag.

"Resolved: That social security benefits be extended to include complete medical care." Members of Groveton's debate teams, Freshman, J.V., and Varsity, all spent a great deal of time gathering information and holding practice debates on this controversial subject in order to be well prepared for the debate season which began in January. In addition to these activities, the teams participated in the University of Virginia Debate Conference in November and in the George Washington Debate Conference in December, at which they obtained both valuable suggestions and commendation on their abilitics. Under a new sponsor, Miss Fromke, the teams not only represented their school well but also received valuable training in speaking, in research techniques and in clear thinking.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Whether it is a human fault or not, the faet remains that man has always needed a goal toward which to strive. Groveton students, returning from a relaxing three-month vaeation, found the needed challenge presented to them in the form of the National Honor Society.

Requiring the maintenance of a 3.2 average in addition to the eultivation of the qualities of leadership, serviee, and charaeter, the society was open to junior and senior students. The annual fall and spring induction ceremonies, at which each officer gave a short speech, more than doubled the number of members remaining from last year.

In addition to holding monthly meetings in the library, the society eontinued to sponsor the bookstore, to run the tutoring service, and to provide a scholarship fund for a deserving senior member.

KEY CLUB

Primarily a service organization, the Key Club performed many worthwhile deeds for the school and community. Braving the cold weather, club members sold Christmas trees at area shopping centers, in addition to helping support a needy family at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter by providing food, clothing, and toys.

Serving the school, the boys parked cars at athletic performances and served behind the consession counter at home basketball games.

As in previous years, the club consisted of ten seniors, ten juniors, and five sophomores, some of whom attended the District Convention in March at which they participated in the election of district officers.

KEYETTES

The Keyettes spent the year solidifying their organization and establishing varied projects, having been newly formed in the winter of 1963.

To promote school spirit, the club co-sponsored a danced after the Fort Hunt football game and served as hostesses for the visiting football players from William Fleming High School in southwest Virginia. The girls sang at the Ann-Lee Memorial Home at Christmas and put together tablets of paper which were given to teachers as Christmas presents in a joint effort with the Key Club.

Several members attended the National Keyette Convention at the Shoreham Hotel on April 4-6. An honorary service organization, the Keyette Club was composed of twelve seniors, ten juniors, and six sophomores; members were required to maintain a C average, be of good character, and possess leadership ability.

How can Latin be considered a "dead" language when more Groveton students joined the Latin Club than ever before? Members engaged in a variety of activities designed to interest and entertain, as well as to increase understanding of the language and of ancient Roman customs. Christmas greetings in the form of scrolls made by club members delighted teachers, and Latin crossword puzzles and film strips with Latin captions challenged members' knowledge of the language.

The year was climaxed by the annual Roman banquet, at which Latin Club members dressed in togas and ate Roman food.

LATIN CLUB

GERMAN CLUB

"Spreehen Sie Deutsch?" This ability was a big help if you were a member of the German Club, a new edition to this year's extra-eurricular life at Groveton. Under the sponsorship of German teaeher, Mr. Ford, the club was open to anyone. The elub's purpose was to further interest in and appreciation of Germany and German eulture. The highlights of the year were an authentie German dinner at the Bavarian Restaurant and speakers and films from the German Embassy.

SOCIETE HONORAIRE DE FRANCAIS

Combining entertainment with education, the French Honor Society met monthly for programs which gave members the opportunity to speak French and hear it spoken. Members were chosen on the basis of high achievement in French and in other subjects, and on the recommendation of their French teacher. Although all French III, IV, and V students were eligible, membership was limited to ten per cent of the total French enrollment. Members viewed the film "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" at McLean High School and dined at a French restaurant. The overall objective of the year's activities was to help members toward a better understanding of the French language and civilization.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Since many students felt that there was a need to compensate for the lack of a club open to all French students, Les Erudits was discontinued, and, in its place. Le Cercle Francais was formed. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Fenili, the club spent this year mainly organizing and establishing itself. The purpose of this new club was to further the student's interest in French culture and to promote the use of the French language in daily conversation. Through the year the club members learned to sing, to play games, and to conduct meetings in French.

LOS GATOS

Working with an increased membership, the Spanish Club fulfilled their usual responsibility of welcoming exchange students from Spanish-speaking countries. In addition to this, they familiarized themselves with Spanish customs by holding a Christmas pinata party and by making a trip to the Pan American Union in Washington. The fact that the meeting date was changed from Tuesday to Wednesday enabled more students to attend.

SOCIEDAD HONORARIA HISPANICA

Providing a goal toward which Spanish students could strive, the Spanish Honor Society required a 4.0 average for students just completing their first semester in Spanish, and the maintenance of a 3.0 average by students in their third and fourth year. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Struck, the Society afforded an interesting and an active year which was begun by inducting new members into the organization in the fall. Following this event, the members were entertained by such activities as discussions, Spanish movies, and a trip to a Spanish restaurant.

ONEIRATA

Because Oneirata, Groveton's literary magazine, had neither a sponsor nor a class period at the beginning of the year, it was not organized until October. Then, as a result of further difficulties, such as the lack of funds and the involvement of many staff members in the Senior Class play, no work was done until December. Despite this rather inauspicious beginning, the staff members did succeed in sending their first issue to press on February 15. Much of the material for this issue came from a contest offering a monetary reward for the best short story and for the best poem submitted by interested students. A second issue, came out on May 17.

ART GUILD

Open to upperclassmen who wish to further serious interest and ability in art, the Art Guild, after being dormant for two years, began anew by revising the club constitution and embarking on a number of projects.

Guild members learned the techniques of copper enameling and sold their wares at S.P.T.A. meetings. A copy of the school seal was presented to the student body for exhibition purposes. At the spring art show, guild members served as hostesses, guiding guests through the exhibits in the lobby and the art department. Works of guild members were exhibited in a special section of the show.

Members attended a number of shows in the area, notably the Van Gogh exhibit at the Gallery of Modern Art, and the loan exhibition of paintings from New York's Museum of Modern Art at the National Gallery.

THESPIAN TROOP 1899

The National Thespian Soeiety at Groveton was one thing for sure this year . . . busy, but happily so. The soeiety was open to members of any grade who had completed the ten point requirement. The point count was earned by performanee or work in any play or anything pertaining to the theater.

Meeting every two weeks throughout the year, the members put on one aet plays and did euttings for school English elasses and outside audienees. Sinee all school drama was eonnected with Thespians, they sponsored the senior elass play in whieh many members took part.

Relaxing a bit, they attended loeal theaters to watch, appreeiate, and learn from the work of others. The soeiety initiated a Thespian newsletter to keep the alumni Thespians in contact with themselves and those they left baekstage at Groveton High.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Ever since the airplane was invented, the world has been "shrinking" in size, thus bringing the nations of the world much closer together. The closer contact between countries has brought about the necessity to understand the customs and ideas of the world's nations; it was with this idea in mind that the International Relations Club began this year. Not maintaining a set membership, the club began the year with an organizational meeting in September at which officers were elected. Because of Groveton's proximity to Washington the club had the advantage of being able to obtain speakers from and to visit various embassies and institutions. These activities combined with movies and frequent group discussions provided an active year for students interested in foreign affairs.

MATH CLUB

The Math Club, a new organization sponsored by Mrs. Murray, promised to be one of Groveton's most active groups. This year the club undertook a student project of constructing a semi-conductor, digital computer using flip flops as counting units. Various speakers and field trips provided the background information for undertaking such a project. As a result of this, Math Club members acquired knowledge in the fields of mathematics and electronics.

SCIENCE CLUB

With interests ranging anywhere from photosynthesis to atomic structure, scientifically-minded students joined the Science Club. The basic purpose of the club was to spread throughout the school an interest in and an understanding of all phases of science.

The first project of the year was building a maze which was used in various tests with white mice. Interest was stimulated and encouraged by other projects and by valuable lectures.

CHESS CLUB

Anyone for chess? There must have been, because this year the Chess Club expanded its membership. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Kelly, club members showed prowess and ability in competition with other teams in Northern Virginia. One didn't have to be an 'egghead' to be on the team, but it did take concentration and a sincere love of the game. To increase interest in the game of chess at its best, club players taught the principles of the game to any interested person.

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

The Future Nurses of America was established this year by girls who were interested in nursing and who planned to make nursing their career. Under the leadership of Clara Roberts, president, and Mrs. Fitzsimmons, sponsor, the club carried out many activities such as trips to hospitals, resthomes, and orphanages. Bake sales were given to raise needed money. Through participation in FNA, these girls began to realize the challenges that go along with the satisfactions of nursing.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

"To teach or not to teach"—that was the question most FTA members asked themselves this year as they discovered the different sides of teaching. They heard lectures given by many speakers, among them Mr. Wilmoth member of the industrial arts staff of Groveton, held a clothing drive for the needy, and sent representatives to the annual FTA State Convention.

Several members became teachers-of-the-day by taking over, with teacher supervision, the instruction of subjects which were of particular interest to them. Through this actual classroom participation, the club members gained not only experience, but a helpful insight into the future career.

DIVERSIFIED OCCUPATIONS CLUB

As in previous years, the Diversified Occupation Club was composed of members of the Industrial Cooperative Training Class. The purpose of the club was to bring together the ICT students who attended Groveton for only half a day. The club members attended the District Meeting at which they entered contests to display their talent with essays, posters, and decorated showcases.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

"Marriage Calls for Preparation" and "Stay in School" were the national goals of the Future Homemakers of America this year. The local chapter kept busy by holding panel discussions and invited guest speakers to discuss these topics. In addition, members learned the practicalities of budgeting money.

Any girl that had ever taken Home Economics, including the junior high level, was eligible to join the club. All girls worked on homemaking projects, working toward a Junior, Chapter, or State degree.

Members of the faculty and parents were guests at a tea in celebration of National F.H.A. week. Fathers were favorably impressed with the efforts of their daughters in preparing the dinner for the traditional "Daddy Date Night." As a service to the school, the F.H.A. took charge of the coat and hat check at all indoor events, and continued to run the Breakfast Club.

Despite a 4-6 record the '63 Tiger gridders played good hard-nosed football throughout the season and the school can be proud of their all-out effort.

The Tigers started off the season with a strong 12-6 victory over the Yorktown Patriots. The next three games were disappointing losses to Woodson, to a strong Lee team, and to arch-rival Mount Vernon. A fourth loss by the narrow margin of a safety followed to tough, top-rated William Fleming, powerhouse from Roanoke. The Tigers rebounded from these losses and chalked up victories over a highly favored Hammond team by the score of 7-6 and ran over Edison 21-0. After dropping close games to Marshall and Fort Hunt, the team wrapped up the season on a positive note, defeating Falls Church 7-6.

Winning awards for varsity play were:
Joe Grula—Outstanding Offensive Lineman
Gary Calhoun—Outstanding Defensive Lineman
Bill Armstrong—Outstanding Offensive Back
Dave Ringwalt—Outstanding Defensive Back
Bob Lisicki—Most Improved Player
Ricky Owen—Sportsmanship Award

Hard work and team hustle resulted in a 5-3 winning season for the Junior Varsity players. Future Varsity teams will benefit from the experience provided by this year's work.

Highlighting the season was an opening victory over Mount Vernon. Falls Church was defeated 27-0 to conclude the schedule.

The Junior Varsity Sportsmanship Award went to Gary Hall. It is the only award given to J.V. players and the recipient is elected by the team members.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Led by Coach Verne Canfield, the varsity basketball team finished the '63-'64 season with a 12-7 over-all record, tying for fourth plaee in a tough Northern Virginia League. This is the sixth consecutive winning season compiled by a Groveton team and the teams in the last six years average 13 wins and 7 losses a season. With a full-court "area" press and a fast-break offense, the Tigers provided the fans with fast moving, exeiting games.

Each year Coach Canfield tries to improve the basketball program. This year the team put out a broehure containing facts about the team and wore blazers with Groveton patches to each game and to school the day of a game. A rebounding machine was purchased by the athletic department for the team. Several times the Tigers were rated in the top twenty teams of the Metropolitan area. Jimmy Lewis appeared on the All-Metropolitan team. He was also on the Northern Virginia second team, while Whit Krumm received an honorable mention.

The Tigers won the first 3 games of the season by twiee defeating Mt. Vernon and Edison. Then they fell to Stuart in a close battle by 3 points. They then won the next eight in a row. The highlight of the season was the way that our cagers performed against the tough Arlington schools. The Tigers won 2 out of 3 games by beating defending state champion Washington and Lee, Northern Virginia tournament winner Wakefield, while the Yorktown game was lost by two points in an overtime game.

Teamwork was a strong point of this team. Five of the team finished the season with over 170 points. These five compiled averages of over 9 points.

Each year five awards are given to outstanding players on the varsity team. These awards went to:

Whit Krumm
Jim Lewis—Most Valuable players.
Winkie Whalen—Best free throw pereentage.
Jay Radin—Most improved player.
Bill Peters—Outstanding defensive player.
Mike Bramley—Sportsmanship award.

The Junior Tigers finished the '63-'64 season with a respectable 8-9 record. Coach White substituted freely and worked with all of the boys to get them ready for next year's varsity team. Defense was stressed with this team with them using different types of man-to-man defense. One award is given to a J.V. player each year. The Sportsmanship award went to Kenny Perrault.

The Freshman team carried on the Tiger's winning tradition with a record of 10-0. This was the first undefeated freshman team in Groveton's history. The highlight of the season was their victory over undefeated Stuart to give them the unofficial Fairfax County championship. The Sportsmanship award went to Hugh Jones.

WRESTLING

The Groveton wrestlers wound up their 1964 season on a high note as the team finished 6th in the Northern Virginia tournament and 8th in the state.

Co-captain Joe Grula won the district title in the 180 pound class, while Larry Christ won the championship in the 103 pound class. Doug McAdams and Pete Stephens qualified for the state meet by placing 4th and 3rd respectively.

Adding to their two gold medals and silver medal won in the district tournament were two more silver medals, as Larry Christ and Pete Stephens went to the finals of the state championships before bowing to their foes.

Inexperience was one of the causes for the 5 wins 6 losses record in dual meet competition.

The biggest win of the season was the Golden Tigers first victory over arch rival Mt. Vernon in the history of the school.

It was the first season that a complete J.V. team could be outfitted and a complete schedule made. The J.V.'s made up almost entirely of 9th graders finished with a 3-4-1 record.

Joe Grula won the Most Valuable team member award.

Pete Stephens, the Most Improved wrestler.

Larry Christ, the Most Outstanding Wrestler, and the varsity Sportsmanship award.

Dale Millan won the J.V. Sportsmanship award.

Despite the almost continuous April rain that hampered practice sessions and delayed games, coach Gus Panagos, with eight returning varsity lettermen and six returning junior varsity lettermen welded the veterans and inexperienced first-year men into a solid ball club.

Brighter days and early-season experience saw the club turn in impressive performances as the season progressed.

The Junior Varsity team, coached by Mike Foglio of Bryant Intermediate school, also had to fight the weather to get in important practice schedules. Junior Varsity players exhibited the team effort and sportsmanship that would make them a team to contend with in their future years of varsity play.

TRACK

Opening the track season with a tie for eleventh place with Mt. Vernon in the Fairfax County Relays, the Tigers lost to Mt. Vernon and Marshall, then gave arch rival Ft. Hunt a resounding defeat.

Coaches Paul DuVall and Gene Hess commented on the individual improvement of team members at each meet. John Caldwell, John Orton, Jim Berry, Herbert Tancil, Jim Thacker and Ray Barber were turning in notable performances at mid-season. Impressive freshman and sophomore team members were bright prospects for seasons to come.

Under a new coach this year, Groveton's hockey teams showed a marked improvement over last years season. Coach Doris Torrice led both varsity and junior varsity teams to victory through hard work and understanding.

With only four returning lettermen the varsity showed determination, ending their season with a 3-2-3 record. This was only giving up games to Marshall and J. E. B. Stuart. Tie games seem to prevail.

The J.V. team which consisted of a majority of freshmen ended with a season record of 2-2-2. The girls were new at the game but acquired initiative and showed good skill.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Girl's varsity basketball team split their season record with six wins and six losses. The team, with only four seniors opened with two decisive wins over Fairfax and Ft. Hunt. Lisa Dunn, most valuable player, and Ellen Morse, awarded sportsmanship, led the team in a continued search for victory. As a whole, the season was disappointing because of the loss of several games by very narrow margins. Mrs. Ingham, varsity coach, and the numerous underclassmen look forward to a victorious season next year.

The best statement describing this year's J.V. team is "they were a great team all around." Both Miss Mann and victorious teammates were proud of their 11 wins and only one defeat by very strong Marshall. The outstanding seasonal record can be accredited to a joint team effort.

Sophomore Class Officers

Class of

66

Considering themselves older and wiser, the lowly Freshman Class of the year before accepted the role of a more experienced Sophomore Class. They began preparing for the future by accepting new responsibilities, establishing high goals, selecting courses of study, and realizing future financial needs. Their interest in school affairs was demonstrated by their participation in and support of various athletic, club, and SCA activities. This year they initiated several fund-raising programs, which helped prepare them for the responsibilities of the next step —their Junior year.

Junior Class Officers

65

The Junior Class made an early start raising money by having summer bake sales and car washes. It was a bad blow for the hardworking class members when they learned that their vice-president was going to attend another school. However, when school started, they elected a new vice-president and set up two committees: the planning committee, which assembled the ideas of the class, and the volunteer committee, which put willing and eager class members to work. At their second class meeting their constitution was voted upon and ratified. They got right to work on their major project--making money for the prom! They sold donuts, sponsored plays, washed cars, held bake sales, gave sock hops after basketball games, and even paid class dues!

It had been hard work, but it was worth it. Not only did they give a successful prom, but through the committees and open discussions in class meetings, they instilled interest and spirit for the class as a whole. What better qualities could be asked for the Senior Class of next year?

Senior Class Officers

Class of 64

Secure in our Senior status, we barely resembled the frightened, confused eighth graders of five years before. As the last class to have attended Groveton for five years, we had become quite familiar with our school and our teachers.

Called upon to assume the leadership of Groveton, we tried to do so with confidence. With less effort than would have seemed possible, we filled the shoes of those previous Seniors at whom we had looked with such awe and admiration.

Our year was filled not only with work, but also with fun. Under the direction of Mrs. Kogelman, long hours went into the production of the class play, Charley's Aunt. Our officers worked hard to secure the privilege of senior tables, and a senior suggestion box. The climax of the year was the prom, Senior Week, and the long-awaited graduation exercises.

Then, as we stood waiting to receive our diplomas, we realized that one segment of our life had been completed. We were leaving the secure world of high school to go our separate ways, each to make his own life and to play his own part in his own way.

HOMECOMING

THE QUEEN

CAROL LYKO

The attractive "lady" peeking out from behind the trellis was Dana Thompson alias Charlie's Aunt. The setting was late nineteenth century England at Oxford University. The players were all dramatically inclined members of the Senior Class.

For five solid weeks after school last winter these students could be found practicing and perfecting Charlie's Aunt, the hilarious eomedy by Brandon Thomas. Literally hundreds of hours were spent in intensive sessions of traeing and retracing lines and movements and of trying out various stage and lighting effects. How many hamburgers were consumed in place of a good homemade meal was anyone's guess. It was not all drudgery, however, and the cast and stage crew had a fabulous time making and strengthening friendships and observing other productions of the same play by other schools. To climax the three successful presentations of the play the members held a cast party and gave their hard-working director, Mrs. Kogelman, a gift of appreciation.

JUBILEE

MUSIC 'N MORE

A Jubilee – ideas – plans – decisions – new songs to learn – backdrops to make – more paper – more tape – more paint – more time! Rehearsals to attend – on stage – "places!" – hurry – will they like it? Two minutes – quiet – get ready – curtain – lights – music – SMILE! You're on – keep moving – next backdrop – keep going – stop – intermission.

They liked it! There's more — let's go — there's no business like show business — keep it moving — SMILE — almost over — last act. Goodnight dear friends! Tomorrow night — the last — tonight is forever.

Music 'n More — nevermore.

Next year — 'Til we meet again!
